

Links to Agricultural Information on the Internet

On Facebook become a fan of these organizations:

U.S. Agriculture United, Stop the Humane Society of the United States (HSUS), That the World May Know - A Fight Against HSUS, Indiana Sheep Exposition, Change Benton County

On the internet, these sites can offer important information. Many of these sites do have Facebook pages if that is an easier way for you to stay up to date. Remember that it is good to keep up on the “other side” as well as your own side:

Indiana Farm Bureau -www.infarmbureau.org The purpose of Indiana Farm Bureau is to be an effective advocate for farmers and through its policies and programs, promote agriculture and improve the economic and social welfare of member families.

Growing Indiana Agriculture -<http://www.growinginagriculture.com> Growing Indiana Agriculture (GINA) is an education and awareness program with the goal of increasing soybean meal demand by developing Indiana’s livestock industry in a manner that is environmentally safe, socially responsible, and economically viable for farmers who want to raise livestock.

Watchdog Indiana -<http://www.finplaneducation.net> Watchdog Indiana provides information about the revenues, spending, and long-term debt assumption of Indiana local and state governments. An online community is established where Hoosiers come together voluntarily to help encourage our state and local governments better respond to the needs of working families.

Faces of Agriculture Featuring Trent Loos- <http://www.facesofag.com> Faces of Agriculture is a nationwide, grass-roots organization designed to promote all of production agriculture by providing producers with empowering information so they can confidently champion their industry.

Feedstuffs Food Link -<http://www.feedstuffsfoodlink.com/ME2/Default.asp>
Connecting food to the Fork.

Indiana Soil and Water-<http://iaswcd.org/> The Indiana Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts (IASWCD) and our local SWCDs share a single mission: to coordinate assistance from available sources - public and private, local, state and federal - in an effort to develop locally driven solutions to natural resource concerns.

PETA-<http://www.peta.org/> Almost all of us grew up eating meat, wearing leather, and going to circuses and zoos. We never considered the impact of these actions on the animals involved. For whatever reason, you are now asking the question: Why should animals have rights?

HSUS(Humane Society of the United States)-<http://www.humanesociety.org/> The HSUS confronts national and global cruelties through major campaigns targeting the inhumane treatment of animals.

Hoosier Ag Today -<http://www.hoosieragtoday.com/> Hoosier Ag Today, Exclusively committed to covering the state's farming, food, forestry and renewable fuel issues.

Indiana Family Farms-<http://www.indianafamilyfarms.org/> This web site is your personal introduction to some of the men and woman who make up the Indiana livestock industry. Most Hoosiers have not visited a dairy farm or spent time on a beef or pork operation. Most people have never met a farmer. This is a chance for you to do both - visit a livestock farm and meet the people who own and operate them

Indiana State Department of Agriculture-<http://www.in.gov/isda/> ISDA works with elected officials on the local, state and federal level to benefit all Hoosiers involved in the agriculture industry. ISDA does not serve as a regulatory body; however, the Department's function is to educate and to serve those who have the power to improve the direction of the agriculture industry in Indiana. ISDA has already achieved success with legislative bodies by helping provide production credits and tax incentives for users and producers of several agriculture products.

US Farm Report -<http://www.agweb.com/USFR/Default.aspx> On the air for more than three decades, U.S. Farm Report remains the longest-running syndicated program focusing on agriculture, rural issues and the country lifestyle.
